

Weekend Update - October 20, 2019

We have a huge focus on writing this year. One thing parents can do at home is talk about what events at home would make a good story. It's really just about generating ideas. Maybe the milk being spilt...maybe a road trip with the family...maybe a funny event. It doesn't need to be a big event, but just generating those ideas ensures the kids have more ideas to grab when they start writing at school.
